

A newly updated Water Board Bible is now available from Kansas Rural Water Association

Building on the strong foundation document authored in 1993 by Ellen Miller and Elmer Ronnebaum, the "Bible", was reprinted in 1995 and again in 2010 with minor revisions.

A much more extensive review and updates in the 2016 edition were provided by Gary Hanson, Stumbo Hanson, LLP (ret.).

"The Water Board Bible strikes the right tone with respect to current trends including diversity in the workforce, open government and post-Flint regulatory climate as well as the relationship with the consuming public and their water supply expectations."

– Gary Hanson

Funding for the 2016 edition is courtesy of the Kansas Rural Water Finance Authority. The Authority has offered to donate copies to every rural water district in Kansas, upon such request. The handbook will also be used for board training provided by KRWA.
