

Bret Beye Joins KRWA Staff

The Kansas Rural Water Association is pleased to announce the employment of Bret Beye, Herington, Kan. Bret will work as a technical assistant for KRWA and will also provide assistance with training sessions and other KRWA programs.

Bret has thirty years of experience working with the water and wastewater departments at the city of Herington. He has an extensive knowledge of day-to-day city operations pertaining to water distribution, water production, sewer collection and sewage treatment. He holds a Class 3 water operator certification and is also certified as a backflow device technician.

Bret is also experienced with conducting public meetings in a variety of venues such as city councils, rural water districts and the general public.

"Over the years I have developed a passion for serving on our local board of education. During that time a strength that I believe I have developed is the ability to communicate effectively and lead my peers in a positive manner. Another strength I have the ability to see both sides of a situation and react in a calm and logical manner," Bret says. He has served on the USD 487 Board of Education since 2003 where he was been board president and vice-president.

Bret also has been treasurer of the Herington Fire Relief Association for five years, collecting dues, insurance and retirement payments.

"At this stage of my life, I welcome the challenge of this position with Kansas Rural Water Association and the opportunity to be of help to water and wastewater systems," Beye says.

Bret and his wife Lisa, a local high school business teacher, coach and Future Business Leaders of America sponsor, live in Herington where they are active in church and numerous community affairs and local school activities. Bret loves to help sponsor the FBLA trips where he serves as a driver and chaperon. He has helped with these trips for more than 15 years. In his spare time his passion is to spend time with family, friends and working in his woodworking shop. Bret and Lisa have been lifelong residents of Herington; they have three daughters and a son.
