The CODE of the Old West – and It's Value Today!

Keynoter Mark Skaggs brings his impersonation as Festus from the famed "Gunsmoke" TV series to the 2022 KRWA Conference. Skaggs began doing impressions while in high school and then in the Marines. He began writing comedy at an early age (because he was funny). For more than 40 plus years he performed sporadically until 2015. Then the light came on and he began doing a standup routine as Festus from "Gunsmoke", the western TV series. While his other impersonations are regarded as excellent, his' Festus is regarded as EPIC! Skaggs has been booked all across the U.S.

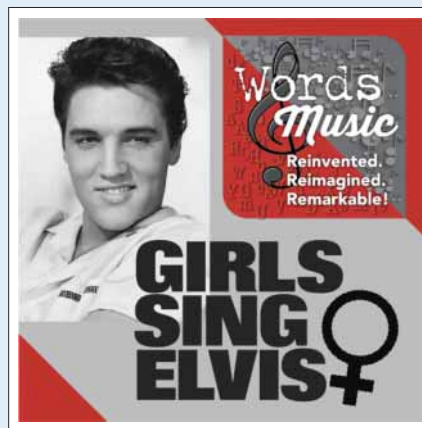

At the 2022 KRWA Conference, the keynote by Festus will remind people that in the nineteenth century, people based, and lived their life according to a CODE. The CODES weren't exactly the same, but they had core elements in common:

- ◆ Cooperation – They depended on each other to survive and advance.
- ◆ Respect – They respected others as valued individuals as well as respecting each others property.
- ◆ Work Ethic – They had to work long and hard to survive. "You don't work, You don't eat!" The Kansas Work Ethic is known world-wide.

Strategists today are always sounding the alarm about how the business world is drastically changing, and so must you! While it is true that some methods must change, Your CODE must remain the same now and into the future for you to realize great success!

Don't miss Festus and the Opening Keynote at 8:30 a.m., Wednesday, March 30 in Concert Hall.

Elvis was not a singer-songwriter. He interpreted the songs of other writers in a distinctive style that became the Elvis brand. But the long-term success of his career depended upon great songs. We'll explore the early rhythm and blues performers that inspired Elvis plus celebrate some of the best songs and songwriters in the business including the incomparable Lieber and Stoller. All interpreted by the Forum's incredibly talented female performers who will bring a fresh, new approach to the songs. Did we mention there will be lots of dance, too?

Don't miss this Wednesday evening, March 30, immediately following the awards banquet.
